NEW YORK, May 12.—Hannes Kolehmainen, the Finnish distance runner of this city, today won the Evening Mail's seventh annual modified marathon race of twelve and three-quarters miles in 1 hour 7 minutes and 11 4-5 seconds. President Wilson started the men by pressing an electric signal button in Washington.

This was Kolehmainen's fourth victory in these events. He ran unattached today. Last year he finished second, beaten by inches by William Kyronen, another Finlander, who, wearing the colors of the Millrose A. A. today, finished second. Charles Pores of the same club was third, with James Hennigan, Dorchester A. A. Boston, fourth.

Central High School yesterday wor the annual interhigh school track and field championships. Technical furnished strong opposition in all the events and until the last two were decided appeared to have very near an even chance to capture the meet. Westrn was third, Business fourth and Eastern fifth. The result of the meet gives Central its third consecutive leg on The Evening Star trophy and, thereon The Evening Star trophy and, therefore, permanent possession.

It was realized before the meet began that there was likely to be a close fight between Central and Tech, with the former slightly favored. This proved to be the exact condition of affairs, and about the only unexpected thing in the meet was the manner in which these two schools outclassed the others. Central made 60 1-14 points and Tech was shooting close at that figure with 51 9-14. Western had enough men in the place to score 14 1-7 points, Business got 1-7 of a point and Eastern failed to count.

Particularly good time was not made Particularly good time was not made in the majority of the events, the 880 being the only one in which there was exceptional running. In that race Sheehan of Tech set a fast pace from the start, after jumping away from the mark in the lead, and at the beginning of the back stretch of the second lap began to open up a lead that was continually widened with every yard until the tape was broken. Sheehan's time was announced as 2 minutes 2 3-5 seconds—about four seconds better than the previous record. Holden of Central ran Sheehan hard for the first 500 yards, but in the stretch broke and fell. Tech took first, second and third, Gross finishing second and Burgess third. Gerry of Central got fourth position.

rapners are credited with one-seventh of a point as a result of Noetzel's effort.

Of all importance to Central and Tech was the relay race. There had been much discussion as to the relative capabilities of the two fours between the Pennsylvania relays and yesterday's meet. Every other event was finished before the relay was begun. Central won the toss for the pole and Connor of Central and McNamara of Tech went to their marks. McNamara beat Connor off the mark and managed just barely to hold the lead and touch off his teammate just a yard or two to the good. Nash, second runner for Central, was too experienced for his opponent and, after following the pace for the first 300 yards, sprinted and touched McLean off a good twenty yards in the lead. McLean held his distance and Latta was much too fast for Sheehan of Tech to catch under such conditions. In fact, had Sheehan started within two yards of the Central star the two men might have finished in relatively the same positral star the two men might have finished in relatively the same posi-tions, so unappreciable was the dif-ference in their running.

BREAKS RECORD FOR 880-YARD RUN IN GALLIA PITCHES GRIFFMEN TO VICTORY OVER INDIANS

Bert Allows but Three Scattered Singles. While Senators Hit Bagby Hard and Timely.

CLEVELAND. Ohio, May 12.—One month ago, April 12, Bert Gallia let the Athletics down with six scattered hits and won, 6 to 2. Since then the Texan had failed to shine until today, when he fairly scintillated, holding the Indians to three widely separated bingles, while his teammates pounded Jim Bagby for eight safeties, Washington earning its first victory of the western tour, 4 to 1 for eight safeties, Washington earning its first victory of the western tour, 4 to 1.

Gallia really deserved a shut-out, the lone tally hung up by the Dunnmen being presented to them by Capt. McBride's understudy, Crane. Sam' arrived here from Washington this morning in response to a summons Griff sent after Speaker had given Mac a rough manicure with his spikes in Thursday's game. Crane had his choice of railroads and chose one that the other members of the team did not travel on when they came here. He arrived in good condition, with no cinders in his eyes, and as a consequence got his third hit of the year, said bingle sending over Washington's first run in the fourth inning. Rice singled through Wambsganss to start the round and was sacrificed to second by Smith, who used a flat bat for the purpose. Umpire Connolly detected Smith's trickery and cautioned Elmer against further employment of an illegal weapon. But Rice was on second, so there was nothing to do but give credit to Smitty. Morgan then poked a hot one at Turner. The cotton-topped veteran turned and tossed to Wamby at second, but Ump McCormick ruled that Rice had gotten back in time. Henry registered a strenuous but unavailing kick when Connolly called him out on strikes, and then Crane made that hit. It was a regular, bingle-in-any-league line drive to left that scored Rice.

Judge's triple in the fifth that paved the way for Washington's second run was a vicious drive that struck only a few feet from the top of the right field screen, which is forty-five feet high.

Crane Comes Back.

Crane evidently did not feel altogether right about what he had done, so in the last half of the round he saed his troubled conscience by handing back the tally.

Yet returned to second Zeb started to leisurely toss the ball in, whereupon Triskicked the sack and darted to third, arriving yards ahead of Milan's belated peg. Glusto then drew his second pass, but Gallia caused Miller, pinch hitting for Turner, to pop weakly to Judge. gether right about what not so in the last half of the round he ased his troubled conscience by handling back the tally.

Chapman walked and stole second and third, being aided in the latter endeavor by the fact that the ball Gallia delivered was a wild pitch that bounded in front of the plate. Speaker in the meantime had skied to Milan. With the infield drawn in, Roth bounced a ball through the pitcher's box. Crane got it and slammed it far over Henry's head, Chapman scoring and Roth going to second. Wamby sacrificed Roth to third, for what reason none of the scribes were able to fathom, and Glusto walked. On an attempted double steal Henry made a short throw to Gallia. Bert's quick toss caught Roth off third, Crane taking Foster's throw and pegging to Judge, who tagged Roth at the plate.

Judge's triple and Foster's infield out gave the Griffmen their second run in the fifth. This was enough to win, but to make victory certain two more counters were hung up in the eighth. With Milan out of the way, Rice walked and went to third when Smith singled to center, Elmer ambling on to second on Speaker's peg to third. Then, with the infield in on the grass, Morgan bounced a hot one through the pitcher's box that Chapman reached, but could not hold, both Rice and Smith sprinting in. Score:

With "fair and warmer" as the weather prediction and Stanley Coveleskie, the Indian's leading twirler, advertised to pitch, a crowd larger by several thousands than any the Griffmen have played before this season is expected to turn out for the Sabbath encounter between Washington and Cleveland tomorrow. Although the weather was exceedingly chilly today, more than 5,000 paid their way into League Park, and well informed persons locally assert this number should be trebled on the morrow. Jim Shaw is down to do mound duty for the visitors. The famous huntsman has had three full days in which to recover from his exertions of last Wednesday, when he let Boston down with six hits and three runs, giving Washington its first victory of the season over the Red Sox, and should be able to zip the ball over with all the steam for which he is noted. If Jim has the excellent control he has exhibited in his last three starts, Coveleskie is in for a tough afternoon of it, notwithstanding that the Pole has demonstrated that he is in particularly fine form this spring. It is doubtful if a more interesting race over the jumps has ever been witnessed than the Hampden steeplechase, through the field at two miles and a half. The race was not marred by either accident or untoward incident. Fencing perfectly, Bonnie Laddie led from the fall of the flag to a perfect start to the finish, and won as his rider pleased. Warlock, who finished second, will likely be heard from later. He took his fences in stride, and while not good enough to beat Bonnie Laddie just now, may be a keener contender with better knowledge of the course. The threatening weather did not take from a record Saturday attendance. The clubhouse was thronged and the lawn trowded.

pole has demonstrated that he is in particularly fine form this spring.

Although Gallia permitted few liberties with his offerings in the game today, he had to work like a trojan to win. Bert was constantly in trouble. When he was not issuing passes, his teammates were making errors, the result being there were only three innings in which the enemy did not have at least one man on, and on four different occasions they had a runner on third. However, it was on such occassions as these that the Texan shined. Chapman singled in the first inning only to be forced by Speaker, who was caught stealing. In the second Roth walked, was sacrificed on and stole third, but Gallia fanned Giusto and made Turner pop. Not an Indian got on in the third, but three of them reached the base paths in the fourth, when Crane's high heave gave them their only run.

Turner walked to open the fifth and reached second when Smith dropped O'Nell's fly. Foster grabbed Bagby's grounder and forced Turner at third, however, and Chapman popped to Henry after Rice had contributed a good running catch of Graney's line drive. The Carmet, Mattre Corocan and Dight Roce after ran.

Baltimore Player Wins Chevy Chase Club's Spring Event From W. S. Reyburn.

PARRISH ALSO WINNER

to have become a habit with the younger members of the Corkran family of Baltimore. Yesterday afternoon D. Clarke Corkran of the Baltimore Country Club, the twenty-two-year-old brother of B. Warren Corkran of national fame, won the seventh annual golf tournament given by the Chevy Chase Club, defeating William S. Reyburn of the home organization in the final round, 4 up and 3 to play. Displaying a very long game from the tee and completely eclipsing Reyburn on the first nine holes, Corkran was 6 up at the turn and looked like a sure winner at the twelfth, where he was dormie 7 up and had a short putt to win the match. He missed the short putt, however, and so well did Reyburn play that, aided by the mistakes of his opponent, he carried the match to the fifteenth hole, nearly sinking a twenty-foot putt to carry the match a hole farther.

Reyburn was very unsteady from the tee and frequently, particularly on the first nine, left himself a little too much to do around the greens, where he was in fine fettle, but rot quite good enough to make up for his lapses in the long game. On a course such as that of the Chevy Chase Club the man who can punch out a very long tee shot is at a tremendous advantage, and the tale of the match is told in the fact that Reyburn was, contrary to his usual game, weak off the tee, and Corkran, always a very long hitter, was unusually long.

The Baltimorean with a bad start, which included a 6 and a 5 on the first two holes, had the out nine in 38, which is quite enough to hold the ordinary player well in check, and was 6 up, as Reyburn was going badly. The latter lost the ninth hole with a 3, Corkran being on the green with his tee shot and running down the putt for a 2.

When Reyburn, dormie 6 down, won the thirteenth and fourteenth it looked as if the match, seemingly a runaway affair, might suddenly become intefesting, but the end came on the fifteenth, when Reyburn's long try for a 3 rimmed the cup. embers of the Corkran family of Baltiore. Yesterday afternoon D. Clarke

Corkran Wins First Hole.

CORKRAN, BALTIMORE COUNTRY CLUB.

CORKRAN, With the honor, hit his usual terrific ball from the first tee straight down the course into the wind, while Reyburn did not hit his ball well and it carried into the bunker and played a good shot out on the eighteenth fairway. Corkran's second, a high cleek, carried into the bunker to the left of the fairway. He was unable to get out over the cop of the bunker and played a good shot out on the eighteenth fairway. The Monumental City entrant skied his mashle shot, his ball falling in the ditch. Reyburn shot in the green with a fine second shot and won the hole with a silver service by local admirers. him 1 up.

At the short fourth, a very tricky hole with the wind behind the player as it was yesterday, both men were on the green to the left of the hole by twenty feet. Corkran's ball being intwenty feet. Corkran's ball being in-side that of the former District cham-pion. Both were down in two putts to halve the hole. Corkran hita scream-er off the fifth tee which nearly ran into the bunker in front of the green, Reyburn again heeling his drive, the ball barely getting over the ditch. The latter's second shot was short. Corkran played his favorite clyb, the mashie-niblick, and his second shot was dead to the hole, while Reyburn was still off the green, putting the former 2 up.

Both men hit fine tee shots at the sixth, Corkran's ball being the longer, and both topped their second shots. Reyburn's brassle third was hole-high in the rough to the right, while Corkran's long iron third carried to the green and rolled over. His fourth shot, a chip shot from the rough, was dead to the hole, while Reyburn on the like was fifteen feet to the left of the pin and missed the putt, giving the hole to Corkran, and putting him 3 up. and missed the putt, giving the hole to Corkran, and putting him 3 up.
From the seventh tee both rien walloped out long balls to the flat beyond the hill, leaving a magnes second to get home. Reyburn topied his mashle shot and the ball rai into the bunker at the foot of the pile leading up to the green, while forers a pitched a high mashle-niblica anot to twenty feet from the pin. Reyburn got out in three and was on the green in twenty feet from the pin. Reyburn got out in three and was on the green in four, but his attempts were vain, as Corkran was down in 4, Reyburn picking up his bail.

Very probably Corkran wanted to see just how far he could hit the ball with the wind behind him, for his tee shot, the eighth, was surely a beauty, carrying well up beyond the bunker and rolling far up the his. Reyburn sliced his ball to the trap to the right and was out even with Cointy's drive in two. Corkran's iron seend shot was just short of the bunkers of the green in 4 and on in 5, Corkran easily winning the blog. Secures 2 on Ninth Secures 2 on Ninth.

The greatest exhibition of power and accuracy from the tee came at the ninth hole, which, with the tee plates set far back, measures in the neigh-borhood of 250 yards. Corkran took a cleek and his ball carried to the a cleek and his ball carried to the green, running to a point ten feet to the left of the hole. Reyburn also hit a long ball with the wood, which carried green high and stopped just off the green. His chip shot was eight feet short of the hole, but a 3 was useless, as Corkran sank his ten-footer for a 2. Corkran, 1 up at the fifth tee, had won the next five holes to turn 6 up.
